summary/citation: "An industrial injury within the meaning of this Act shall be an accident, cf. section 6, or an occupational disease, cf. section 7, which is a consequence of the work or the working conditions, subject, however, to section 10 A" (Sec. 5 of the Consolidated Workers' Compensation Act).

"(1)Occupational diseases within the meaning of this Act shall be—(i)diseases which—according to medical documentation—are brought about by specific influence to which certain groups of people, through their work or working conditions, are more exposed than persons not having such work. Furthermore occupational diseases shall comprise such diseases as are contracted by a live-born child prior to its delivery as a consequence of its mother's work during pregnancy. The Director General of the National Board of Industrial Injuries, after negotiations with the Occupational Diseases Committee, cf. section 9, shall compile a list of such diseases as are deemed to be of the said nature;

(ii)other diseases, including diseases in a live-born child contracted prior to its delivery, where it is established either that, on the basis of the most recent medical documentation, the disease meets the requirements set out in the first sentence of paragraph (i) of this section, or that it must be deemed to have been caused, solely or mainly, by the special nature of the work.

2)This Act shall be applicable to diseases caused by influence on barents prior to the conception or after the delivery of a child where changes are made in the list referred to in subsection (1)(i) bove, or in accordance with subsection (1)(ii), where it is isstablished that such influence had an injurious effect on foetus or hild.

(3) Diseases comprised by subsection (1)(ii) and subsection (2) above may be recognised only after submission to the Occupational Diseases Committee, cf. section 9. Such diseases shall be submitted to the Occupational Diseases Committee where the National Board of Industrial Injuries deems it possible that the disease will qualify for recognition" (Sec. 7 of the Workers' Compensation Act).
